Happy Halloween!

On the 31st of October it is time for Halloween.

Officially it was only celebrated in Ireland, the UK and the US.

Hundreds of years ago people dressed up as saints and went door to door.

Nowadays children accompanied by their parents wear costumes and go trick-or-treating. They go door-to-door with Halloween buckets, asking for sweets from their neighbors.

The term trick or treating wasn't used until 1920s, when it was adopted in America.

Nowadays, we see more and more countries starting to celebrate Halloween by having Halloween themed parties and/or by decorating their houses.

Día de Los Muertos

The annual Mexican celebration, Día de Muertos (Day of the Dead), is a time when families gather to honor and remember deceased loved ones. It is believed that the souls of the dead return to visit the living families in homes, businesses and cemeteries. The Aztec honored their dead with fiestas and rituals during the harvest season. They viewed death as the beginning of the cycle of seasons and life.
