

July 11, 2020

TOP STORIES

The Coming Apocalypse for U.S. Airline Labor

A travel recovery may be starting, but it may not be enough to save thousands of U.S. airline jobs. Unless Congress acts to extend payroll protections, mass layoffs could start on October 1.

READ MORE

Travel Loyalty: Join Our Online Summit Next Week

As the travel industry begins its long recovery, loyalty is emerging as one of the key factors for consumers eager to travel once again. Join us on July 16 for our latest online summit featuring Skift editors in conversation with travel leaders as we explore the challenges and opportunities ahead for customer loyalty program experts.

REGISTER NOW

What a New Surcharge From Singapore Airlines Could Mean for Other Carriers

It used to be just the European carriers that made bold statements like this against legacy distribution giants. Not anymore.

READ MORE

How Fraudsters Bilked American Airlines and Citibank in Frequent Flyer Schemes

Airlines have complete control over their frequent flyer programs. They can take your miles for nearly any reason. It is probably not a good idea to try to defraud them.

READ MORE

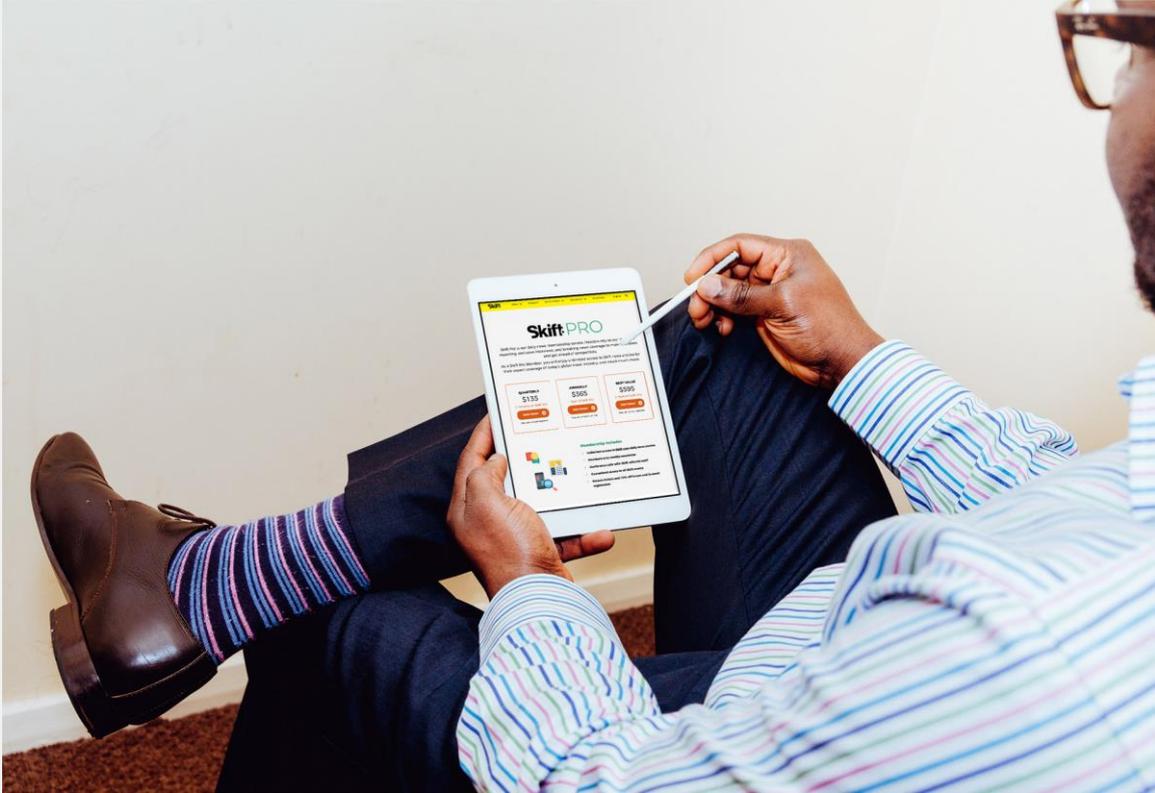

Vacation Rental Brand Vrbo Emerges as Expedia Star With Pandemic-Era Bookings

Vrbo has been in the right place(s) at the right time, somewhat reversing a very challenged 2019. Is the changed trajectory a momentary blip in the throes of a pandemic, or will it be sustainable?

READ MORE

Introducing the Next Phase of Skift's Evolution: Skift Pro, Our Daily News Membership Service

Skift Pro is designed to give our loyal travel industry readers unlimited access to our independent and exclusive news coverage and directly support Skift business and growth from here.

READ MORE

Expedia to Deliver Early Payday to Private Equity Investors

It's no accident that Expedia Group disclosed improved booking trends on Monday, and then announced a senior notes offering to refinance the company's private equity debt a day later. Hey, whether you are a homeowner or a giant online travel company, a good refinancing deal can be smart and hard to resist.

READ MORE

Choice Hotels Goes Deeper on U.S. Job Cuts Amid Longer Recovery Expectations

Choice Hotels' permanent job cuts show even companies that rely more on the rapidly recovering drive-to, leisure travel segment aren't immune to coronavirus' negative business impact.

READ MORE

EDITOR'S PICKS

New Booking Data Shows Lopsided Global Recovery Frustrating Travel Outfits

You can't really talk about a global recovery for the travel sector overall. Regions are out of sync, reveals new data from Travelport. Companies are affected differently, depending on their market exposure.

READ MORE

Your City Was Home to a Superspreader Hotel: What Hospitality Can Learn From Boston's Comeback Plan

The world's hotels need events and meetings to return, likely before a coronavirus vaccine is released, in order to survive financially. Boston's rebound plan is a solution with global implications.

READ MORE

Why Can't Planners Turn a Profit With Virtual Events?

Virtual events have allowed the industry to survive in some form throughout the past few months of coronavirus-prompted cancellations and shutdowns — but only somewhat. Event tech tools are still largely lacking key features that planners need to be profitable.

READ MORE

For Gmail users: If you are using the tabbed inbox, Skift emails may be pushed to the 'Promotions' tab. To get updates from Skift direct to your primary inbox, drag and drop this email to that tab.

Skift.

Our address:
145 W 30th Street
5th Floor
New York, NY
10001 USA

Copyright © 2018 Skift. All rights reserved.

