

Weekly Travel Industry Insight

MAUI TOURISM SPARKS ANGER AMID FIRE RUINS

The incongruous spectacle of tourists enjoying Maui's tropical beaches as search and rescue teams search building ruins and waters for victims of the deadliest U.S. fire in over a century has outraged some residents.

Read More
on our website

THINKING ABOUT ANIMAL WELFARE WHEN TRAVELING

Travel destinations often offer authentic experiences, especially those involving native animals in the area. Animal-related tourist activities can be educational and contribute to the holiday country's environmental...

Read More
on our website

THE TOURISM BOOM MAY BE COMING TO AN END

on our website

DECLINE IN FLORIDA TOURISM

The sunny beaches of Florida in the United States have always been a popular destination for tourists worldwide. However, in 2023, tourism professionals have noticed a significant decrease in visitors compared to...

Read More
on our website

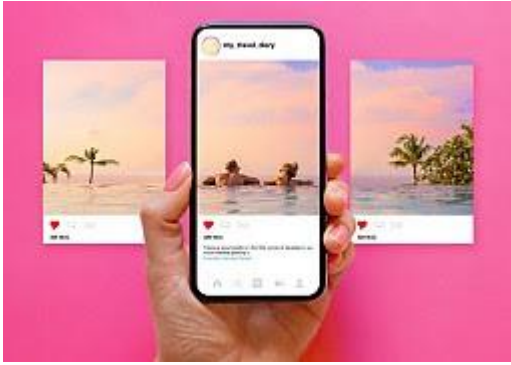

SPANISH PORTS WELCOME MORE CRUISE PASSENGERS THAN BEFORE THE PANDEMIC

on our website

THE IMPACT OF SOCIAL MEDIA ON LEISURE TRAVEL

According to a recent Bitkom study, as many as six out of ten people have already chosen a travel destination just to be able to share a photo on their social media channel. In the 16- to 29-year-old age group,...

Read More
on our website

HOW MUCH DOES A TOURISM GRADUATE EARN IN THE U.S.?

on our website

MAURITIUS TOURISM REBOUNDS AFTER PANDEMIC HITS

The island state and Mauritians have suffered durably from the Covid pandemic, which has frozen all tourist activity, the island's locomotive. But today, tourism is experiencing an encouraging rebound.

Read More
on our website

A DECLINE IN TOURISM IN ACAPULCO

on our website

CHINESE TOURISM TO CANADA IS AFFECTED BY TENSIONS BETWEEN OTTAWA AND BEIJING

Canada remains excluded from Beijing-approved tourist destinations due to accusations of political "interference," the Chinese embassy in Ottawa said amid tensions between the two countries.

Read More
on our website

MORE THAN 1.3 MILLION FOREIGN TOURISTS IN PERU

on our website

MYANMAR'S TOURISM INDUSTRY LOOKS FORWARD TO THE CHINESE RETURN

Affected by the new coronavirus epidemic and the political situation, Myanmar's tourism industry was hit hard. In April last year, the border was reopened to foreign tourists. However, the data could be more optimistic.

Read More
on our website

